My dear Mr Tennant

On the 27th of last month I sent you by the Peninsular a small case containing my brother's letters. Many of them are mere notes, but I have included them, as they will shew you the sincere affection which united us all, and my great unhappiness in being separated from them from my childhood.

Just before poor Severn died, he made another portrait of my brother John, which was offered for sale in Rome, and I am happy to say was purchased by my friend Mr Yates. It is not quite finished, but it is very interesting

When you write again, have the Kindness to inform me, what remains of the poor reserve fund.

I enclose the Certificate, with many apologies for troubling you so often.

With love to your wife, and Kind remembrances from all my family

Ever am

My dear Mr Forman

Yours very sincerely

My dear Mr Tennyson

Many thanks for your thoughtfulness in sending me the Cheque, which as you may suppose was most welcome. I am also much obliged to you for the pleasant sketch by your Severn, though in my opinion it gives no idea of the original.

To show you that I am always most grateful to you, I will send you in a few days a sketch of a mask taken in life, in which you will see a perfect copy of the features of my dear brother. The expression of sense is wanting, as the eyes are closed, and perhaps the mouth is a little compressed which is but natural, as the mask could not have been taken with the
